Trying to Escape Voting on the Local Option Bill.

Forty New Bills Introduced

In the Lower House of the Ohio Legislature. The Trouble This Will Bring on the People Will be More Clearly Demonstrated in After Years.

Columbus, O., March 4.—The members of the senate are already showing a disposition to dodge on the local option bill. On the reading of the bill for the second time in the senate Monday evening, Senator Wirt, a friend of the measure, moved its reference to the committee on judiciary.

Senator Wirt moved an amendment by asking that the bill be referred to the committee on taxation. This amendment brought Senator Harris to his feet, who supported in a speech Senator Wirt's motion to have the bill referred to the judiciary committee. The vote was taken on Mr. Wirt's amendment, which was agreed on by a vote of 17 to 7, all members of the judiciary committee voting to have the bill referred to the taxation committee.

Mr. Comings's house bill raising the age limit from 15 to 21 years at which deaf mutes may attend day schools was made a law by the senate. This bill is identical with one introduced in the senate by Mr. Chamberlain, but as action by the senate would make the Comings bill a law, he asked that it be passed.

The senate committee on judiciary reported favorably a house bill providing for the appointment of an additional stenographer for the supreme court.

House Measures. Columbus, O., March 4.—The advice of Speaker McKinley of the house of representatives on the occasion of his taking the chair to the members to "get your bills in early" is not being followed very generally by those gentlemen. When the introduction of bills was called for there were 40 new laws proposed for the attention of the house, and some of these were of more than ordinary importance.

Last week Mr. Chapman of Montgomery introduced a bill to provide that justice of the peace shall have jurisdiction in all cases prosecuted under the dairy and food laws of the state. The bill is so framed that trials by jury can be avoided, and thus the law really evaded if the justice chooses to impose light fines or penalties or dismiss the case entirely, as he sees fit. On Monday evening Mr. Myers introduced a bill extending practically the same authority to justices of the peace in cases prosecuted under the local bill. In many municipalities, where it is possible to exclude the saloons, it would be difficult to select a jury which would convict, and thus, if this privilege

Porter's Reply. Constantinople, March 4.—The United States minister, J. A. Leishman, has presented a note to the Turkish government regarding the capture of Miss Ellen M. ## DRIVEN OUT

Of Their Homes Up to High Ground.

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 4.—Contrary to expectations the Ohio river, with 39.5 feet in the channel, is still rising at the rate of an inch an hour. In low-lying suburbs several hundred families have been driven to high ground. For a mile up the Ohio and an equal distance up the Little Kanawha almost the entire river bottom is under water. Trains were run on the southern end of the Ohio river railroad and on the Baltimore and Ohio, but nowhere else in this part of the state.

TEXAS DAY.

The Lone Star State Celebrates Independence.

Houston, Tex., March 4.—Texas independence day was generally observed as a holiday. The formal exercises were confined to public schools. At Huntsville the grave of Sam Houston was strewn with flowers. At Austin the university students observed the day with a set program. At Waco the cornerstones for two new buildings for Baylor college were laid. Governor Sayers was present and made an address. The two buildings are to cost $140,000.

Nothing Moving Except the Local Trains.

Not a Western Train Entered the Grand Central Station Yesterday. All Stalled by Floods.

New York, March 4.—Not a western train entered the Grand Central station. All were stalled somewhere along the line or delayed by floods. Nothing came down the Hudson river division except the local trains. At the station it is said that not even a report of the trains due could be had because of the condition of the wires. The eastern express, due at 8:45 p. m., had not been heard from at 9, and the officials said they did not know where it was. The day express due at 7 was not reported. The Chicago limited due at 6:30 and the southwestern limited due at 6 were in places the officials knew nothing about.

ANARCHIST

Libertat will be prosecuted for inciting to murder. The foreign participants in the disturbance will be expelled from France.

TALK

By Funston on the Situation

In Philippines.

Intrepid General Talks Through His Hat

When He Says That There is No War in the Archipelago.

He Says Filipinos are Suspicious of All Foreigners Since the Spaniards Treated Them So Treacherously.

New York, March 4.—Brigadier General Funston, who is in this city en route to Washington, where he goes to learn if he is to return to the Philippines when his furlough expires in April, says: "There is no more war in the Philippines than there is in Kentucky. Assassins lurk in the cane and shoot down men who are at their mercy but there are no soldiers in the field to battle with the United States troops. Even respectable guerrilla warfare has ceased. There has been no fighting in any of the Philippine provinces for nearly six months. It has been said that I have opposed the reduction of our forces in the east. That is a mistake. In my opinion, one-half of our troops might be brought home now, and at the end of a year one-half of those remaining might be returned.

"At the same time, too much latitude should not be given to the natives of the Philippines. They are not ready for self-government, and they belong to that class of people who look upon kindness as a show of weakness. If we are to maintain peace in the islands we must deal fairly, but somewhat sternly, with most of the natives for a good many years. They have been so long accustomed to the Spanish methods of treachery that it will be long before they will accept our promises as we mean them."

TORCHES

And Red Fire Lighted Up the Entire Western City.

Prince Henry Given an Ovation

Which Surpassed Any Effort Ever Before Made by the People of That Busy Metropolis. Prince Pleased With His Reception.

Chicago, March 4.—A glare of red fire that could be seen for miles, the blaze of hundreds of torches, the sparkle of myriads of electric lights and the cheers of thousands of people made up the first taste of Chicago's hospitality that was given Prince Henry of Prussia upon his arrival in this city.

The prince arrived in the city at a time when the streets were thronged to the utmost, it being the hour when many thousands of people were leaving their places of business for the day, and of all these people it seemed that nearly every one walked over to Jackson boulevard to await the arrival of the prince. For the entire distance the sidewalks were solidly massed with people, so closely packed that it was with the greatest difficulty that the line of policemen, drawn up in front of the curb for the entire distance, could restrain the people from crowding over into the street and encroaching upon the line of carriages. The people were willing enough to stand behind the officers, but the trouble was that there was not enough standing room for them all.

No more flattering welcome could have been extended any visitor, and it came not so much from the officials of the city as from its citizens. Every building along the line of his route from the depot to the Auditorium hotel was gaily decorated with bunting, the prevailing scheme being the American and German flags intertwined, with the black eagle of Prussia over all. Many of the buildings had upon their fronts elaborate devices made up of hundreds of electric lights.

Only 30 minutes was allotted on the program to reach the hotel, and the first banquet to the prince was to follow at 7 o'clock. The prince was in his room but a few minutes when he was called for, and the party, followed by the members of the prince's suite, went at once to the banquet hall. The Chicagoans had all preceded them, and as the prince, escorted by Mayor Harrison, Mr. Rice and Mr. Adams, entered the hall, they made the room ring with their cheers. The orchestra, which was behind a great mass of ferns and palms, struck up the German anthem as the prince entered the hall and continued it until after he had taken his seat. The prince seemed greatly pleased at the warmth of his welcome, and bowed and smiled repeatedly.

peatedly, and after he had taken his seat, he nodded right and left to his entertainers as they seated themselves. There were nine tables at the banquet, and, including Prince Henry and his suite, 157 people were seated. After the banquet the prince lingered for a short time in informal conversation with the members of the entertainment committee, and then retired to his room to prepare for the next feature of the program, which was the visit to the armory of the First infantry, where the German citizens of Chicago had arranged a choral festival in his honor.

It was shortly after 8 o'clock when the prince and his suite entered their carriages at the Auditorium hotel for their drive to the armory. The drive was almost an even mile in length, straight up Michigan avenue, and for the entire distance the sidewalks were lined as closely as the people could be packed, with thousands intent upon seeing the prince. A roar of cheers greeted him as he left the hotel and from there until he passed within the doors of the armory there was one continuous shout, which was eclipsed in volume only when he entered the armory, where 6,000 people, most of them born in the Fatherland or descendants of those who had been, were gathered to meet him. Bands were playing with frantic energy and the great chorus of hundreds of voices was singing in honor of the prince as he entered, but their efforts availed them nothing. The cheers of the multitude drowned all else, and for fully five minutes there was nothing but one great roar of voices. Several times six thousand people were on the outside of the building, and they added their cheers to those that welled up inside of the building. It was the one chance of the German citizens of Chicago to have the prince to themselves, and they made the most of it. The sight that met the eyes of the prince as he stepped upon the brightly colored balcony was one to stir the heart of any man, no matter how accustomed to multitudes and to the cheers of crowds he might be. The great hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and from end to end and from side to side there was a sea of faces against which the waving handkerchiefs, which fluttered in the air by the thousands, resembled a white crest of foam.

Only 30 minutes was allotted on the program to reach the hotel, and the first banquet to the prince was to follow at 7 o'clock. The prince was in his room but a few minutes when he was called for, and the party, followed by the members of the prince's suite, went at once to the banquet hall. ## Reece Avenue Resident, Saves a House from Being Destroyed by Fire.

The recent advent of a pretty baby girl at H. W. Cook's, on south Main street, is the cause for jubilation.

William Biddinger, of West Minister, was yesterday entertained by George Smith, of east Kibby street. Biddinger only recently returned from the Philippines, where he served three years in the United States army. Prior to that time he campaigned in Cuba. Mrs. J. C. Wilson, residing on Reece avenue, yesterday made a timely discovery that prevented the destruction of her home by fire. Some boys outside of the house were amusing themselves by lighting matches and thrusting them through the keyhole of the door. Investigating, the lady found a rug ablaze in the room, upon which the lighted matches had fallen. The flames were rapidly spreading. Prompt and effective action extinguished the fire before any very great damage was done. The identity of the young incendiary was not ascertained.

Miss Grace Scamp is here from Spencerville to spend a few days with friends on Second street.

J. McClain, from Tipton, Ia., is the guest of his brother, William McClain, on east Kibby street.

As spring approaches interest in shooting tournaments increase. The local club is anticipating some interesting events. They will hold frequent contests here and will exchange dates with clubs in surrounding towns.

While in conversation with some boys on St. Johns avenue yesterday M. E. Boysell, of south Main street, gave them some small coins. Later, Roy Linderman, one of the recipients exhibited to his mother what he supposed was a penny. The discovery was made that it was a five dollar gold piece. Through the child's honesty the money was returned to Mr. Boysell.

Mrs. Powers, of south Elizabeth street, entertained a number of friends at her home Saturday evening. After an interesting and pleasing entertainment, refreshments were served.

Miss Jessie Colvert, of south Elizabeth street, is convalescing from a long siege of illness.

R. J. Dillingham, of Dayton, called upon friends in this locality last night.

Miss Ella Evans who has been at the hospital the past several weeks and who was thought to be improving, suffered a relapse yesterday, being now in a somewhat discouraging condition. This will be distressing intelligence to her many friends in this city.

A Greater Storage Capacity

for the City Water is Favored.

Bond Issue Proposition Will be Submitted to the Citizens to Vote Upon—Council Proceedings.

The city council met in regular session last night with president Davis in the chair and all members present except Messrs. Shannahan, Scully and Overly.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Several protests against west High street assessment were referred to solicitor.

Petition for grade on River road was referred to street committee.

Clerk reported Barber Asphalt Co. only regular bidder on Scott street paving, their bid being $7,200. Referred to paving committee.

Clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for construction of Market house.

Nancy E. Dorsey was given permission to store building material on east Market street.

J. W. Rowlands asked to have his name stricken from petition to pave Rickie avenue. Filed.

Sherman McClellan asked for a remittance of assessment against his property in Parmenter addition. Referred.

Clerk reported Rudolph Klaybolte & Co., of Cincinnati, only bidders on Market Place bonds, offering par. Bid was accepted.

Plans and specifications for the Market house were ordered.

Secretary Hutchinson, of the water works department, made the following report for February:

Amount on hand last month	$14,378.80
Collected during month	2,173.38
Disbursements during month	$16,452.19
	$125.16
Balance on hand	$12,330.03

The committee on water supply reported recommending the plan prepared by J. W. Van Dyke, C. H. Cory and J. C. Linneman, same as was published by the Times-Democrat Monday.

Mr. Moses moved to receive and adopt.

G. M. McCullough favored issuing $100,000 worth of bonds to enlarge the present reservoirs. He said that in the summer months pickerel grass grows in the water and injures the water. The same conditions will exist in the new reservoir as I have it in McCullough lake. Meters should be put in. Will stop much waste.

Mr. Baumgardner thought the amount proposed was too much.

Mr. Linderman said shallow water would result in grass and moss. He was in favor of a 40 acre reservoir, 50 feet deep rather than 100 acres, 15 feet deep. If we ask for too much we will be defeated.

Mr. Hoyt said a reservoir double the present capacity could be built for $100,000 but for $150,000 five times the capacity can be obtained. He believed the large reservoir was the best for the city.

Mr. Scully didn't believe in patched up goods. A small reservoir would last a little while but a good big reservoir such as is proposed will answer for years to come.

Mr. Alfine thought Lost creek reservoir could be enlarged. He was satisfied more water was badly needed.

Mr. Overly believed in expending enough money to get a supply that will last for years and not necessitate the same action in a few years. Report was adopted.

The finance committee reported bills for February as follows:

General fund	$1068.83
Hospital fund	1763.74
Light fund	1711.12
Police fund	938.42
Food fund	218.79
Sanitary fund	680.02
Sewer fund	358.98
Street fund	977.00
Boyer street grading	24.95
E. McKibben street paving	24.61

Bill of $175 and costs for opening McCullough street over the Lake Erie was read. Mr. Sherman couldn't see why the city should pay for the opening.

Mr. Davis thought electric railway company should pay the expense.

Matter was referred to the finance committee.

Bill of Fred Harold for inspecting

THE TICKET.

The Democrats of Lima have good reason to feel proud of the ticket chosen by their party yesterday. Such excellent men had presented themselves for nomination for position on city, ward and school board tickets that it would have been impossible to have made up a poor ticket from the material offered. Clean primary campaigning was done, and the result is that the most perfect harmony prevails in the party. There are no sore spots to heat and all will work together for the success of the ticket, the election of which is assured. Every nominee on the ticket is a strong one, and with officers elected such as the Democrats have placed in nomination the city of Lima will have an administration that is clean and honest. John Shannahan, the candidate for mayor, is well known all over Lima as the champion of the people's rights in the city council. He has looked carefully after their interests, and has guarded as well as was possible the public expenditures. On all questions which have come up since he has been a member of the city council, John Shannahan has always been on the side of the people. Had his wise counsel been heeded by his colleagues, and he given co-operation in his efforts for the public good, the financial condition of Lima would today be more favorable.

For city solicitor Fred C. Becker was chosen without opposition. Mr. Becker, who is the junior law firm of Becker & Becker, is recognized as one of the ablest of the young attorneys of the Lima bar. He is thoroughly equipped for the important duties of solicitor and the city's legal affairs could not be entrusted to anyone who would more carefully or capably attend to them.

For city engineer, James Pillars is the candidate, also chosen without opposition. Mr. Pillars has served the city as engineer in former years. His record in the past speaks for itself, and is an excellent recommendation as to his qualifications. He is a capable, efficient engineer, and is just the man to fill the position at this time in the city's history when so much public work is being done.

For justice of the peace the successful candidate yesterday was J. D. Armstrong. His qualification for the position is unquestioned. He is one of the most capable young attorneys in this city and his elevation to the position of justice will mean the most efficient administration of the duties of that important office.

For water works trustees W. H. Stephens and Frank Seiber are chosen. No better choice could have been made. Both are careful conservative business men, who have made successful their private business. When elected they will carry their sound business ideas into the administration of that important branch of the public service for which they have been nominated as trustees.

For street commissioner Hugh Gagin, of the First ward, was chosen. Mr. Gagin is a representative man, who will capably fill the important position of street commissioner. He is efficient, energetic, and popular, and the people of Lima cannot do a wiser act than to elect him to the position for which he made such a gallant run yesterday.

James Cremean, who was nominated for constable, has served one term and has made one of the most efficient constables the city has had. He is active, efficient and always at his post of duty.

For members of council the following excellent gentlemen have been chosen as candidates: First ward, H. F. Vortkamp; Second ward, Ed. L. Smith; Third ward, Jacob Killian; Fourth ward, Thomas Phalen; Fifth ward, John Sloniker; Seventh ward, Frank Haller. No better selection of men could have been made. All are honest, capable men of business, who will help relieve this city from the burdens under which she is now struggling. They are men in whom the financial affairs of this city may be safely entrusted, and the people in the various wards will see to it that they are elected.

For assessors excellent men were nominated in the persons of William Gallagher, of the First ward; William Abbott, in the Second ward; A. Lones in the Third ward; W. C. Hire, in the Fourth ward; J. F. Drennan in the Fifth ward and J. F. Hutchins, in the Seventh ward.

There were good-natured contests over the nomination of members of the school board in the Fourth and Sixth ward, resulting in the nomination of Charles Mooney in the Fourth and W. M. Irish in the Sixth ward. In the Second ward Frank Klatte was re-nominated without opposition. These gentlemen are recognized as most abundantly qualified for the important duties of the position to which they have been nominated, and to which they will be elected without opposition.

As a last resort the unblushing beet sugar beggars that infest the lobbies at Washington are insisting that before anything shall be done for the relief of Cuban industries a commission shall be sent to the island to investigate and report at leisure. While the commissioners should inquire and junket the sugar crop would rot and the laborers on the plantation starve. What is wanted by the lobby is not information but delay. There is some ground for hope, however, in the fact that the opponents of fair dealing with the people of Cuba have been obliged to state something of their clamorous demand for a sacrifice of the public interest and the national honor in order to minister to private greed.

It has been said that the trust problem is one of the most serious that confront the American people, and indeed it is, for the evidences of trust control are noticed in all the branches of business. The Democratic party has been foremost in opposition to trusts and will continue to be in the future. The people, however, are the sufferers by such combines and to destroy their power it depends on them to apply the removing remedy as often as the opportunity is presented. Men must be elected to legislative and executive offices who will oppose the trusts.

The county conventions in the past in Darke for congressional honors will not be renewed this year, as the committee has properly arranged for the Democracy of the county to vote on their choice for congress at the coming primary. The several prospective candidates of days gone by, who believe in the voice of the people, now have a splendid opportunity to step out. So far, ex-county representative, Harvey C. Garber, is the only candidate in Darke county announced for this high and very important office. —Greenville Democrat.

It is stated that some of the political friends of W. D. Hill are going to argue his nomination for the office of probate judge. It is not thought that he is seeking the honor, but there are those who think that it would be a pretty compliment to him for faithful party services and a happy rounding out of his career if the office could be given to him. —Defiance Express.

Mr. Hill represented Allen county in congress when this was part of the old Seventh district, then composed of a string of counties extending from Defiance to Shelby county. It was facetiously termed the "Shoestring district."

The Patterson bill, introduced to investigate the scheme to abandon the canal system of Ohio will likely develop the fact that there is an ulterior object behind the project which has been so industriously worked since the present general assembly convened. There seems to be no doubt as to there being a plan on, whereby some people can clean up a lot of money at the expense of the people of the state of Ohio who own the waterways which the schemers want abandoned.

That setto between Bert Campbell, who assumes to be one of the Foraker bosses, and George Hall, who is a defacto Hanna boss, in the late Republican city caucus demonstrated the brotherly love that exists between the two factions of the Republican party in Lima. The Hanna end won out, however, as they usually do in these family rampuses.

The thaw which is now commencing promises to create havoc along the Ohio river by high water. The great ice gorges in the streams to tributary to the Ohio presage a series of calamities from floods when the break up comes.

The Foraker Republicans have put in the past four days trying to figure out now a precinct with 23 votes in it mapped out for 43 ballots in the hat, and they have about concluded that tissue ballots did the work.

President Roosevelt wishes to retire Hobson. This will give that intrepid officer a chance to carry on his obligatory efforts without interfering with official duty.

O-y-s-t-e-r-s at Townsend's.

A Storm Gathering.

Gentlemen of the dominant party, permit me to say to you that you are intoxicated with your present power; you have become recklessly indifferent to the wishes of the people. Listen to what I say. The people are at last awakening to true conditions. You have reached the point where you are anxious to trim, to evade, to dodge, and the people know it. During this congress there will be no interference with the common realm of the trusts. The trusts have so willed it. Now mark the prophecy: These issues will bring about your undoing. Already a storm is gathering in the west. The gentleman from Wisconsin (Mr. Babcock), who has been on the watchtower for the Republican party for eight years as chairman of the Republican congressional committee, has sounded a note of warning which has been echoed in effect by the present governors of Iowa and Minnesota, both Republicans, but it will avail naught. You are joined to your idols; you are true Republicans; you know the power of trusts; they know your venality. This tells the whole story. —Representative Burleson (Tex.), in the House.

TILDEN'S DEMOCRACY.

It Was Sound In Jefferson's Time; It Is Sound Today.

UNDER THIS STANDARD WE RALLY

Government Only by Consent of the Governed—No Taxation Without Representation—Personal Liberty and Freedom of Speech—Equal Opportunities and No Favoritism.

Among the significant sentiments which were offered on the occasion of the celebration of the birthday of Samuel J. Tilden by the Democrats of Brooklyn none was more cogent and opportune than that sent by Hon. Richard Olney, ex secretary of state, says the Atlanta Constitution.

After paying deserved tribute to the personal character of the grand old "Sage of Greystone," Mr. Olney stated the four great principles of American Democracy which were the zephyrs of Mr. Tilden's faith and patriotism. They sound with seductive familiarity to those who lived in the activities of a generation ago and who followed with enthusiasm the banner of that Cour de Lion of the decadent and victorious Democracy of 1876. They sound like slogans of hope to those who are yet devoted to the creed of the fathers and who believe that the day of decision is near at hand when Democracy or imperialism must be master at the helm of the nation.

"Government only by consent of the governed" is the first and dominant principle which Mr. Olney mentions. That principle was involved in the Titanic contest which Mr. Tilden led against the hosts of Republicanism while yet South Carolina and Louisiana were held in leash to the radical machine by military power and their legislatures organized and guarded by federal bayonets. The Democrats won the battle, but Mr. Tilden failed to secure the presidency. Nevertheless, by that verdict of the American masses the bayonet bolstered governments of aliens and semibayonets went by the board and vanished into infancy.

That principle is again on trial before the American people. Now, it is not an issue in any state, although the Crumpleheads would have made it such if they could, but it concerns the people whom Providence has delivered into our keeping. It concerns Porto Rico until fear made the imperialists release her. Now it concerns the Philippines. As to them, the case is anomalous in our history and requires unique treatment in order that this great American principle may be vindicated.

"No taxation without representation" is the second great tenet to which we are recalled. The mere statement of it enforces upon the understanding of every sane American the tremendous opposition it presents to the whole scheme of taxation imposed and enforced by the Republican party. It strikes a full front blow upon the torso of the Goliath of the protectionist Philistines. It denies the validity of the whole party rule by which the many are burdened with taxation to enrich classes and sections. It denounces the robbery of the people through the insidious indirect levies of tariff inflated prices for the necessities of life that colossal fortunes may come to favored parasites and amazing surpluses be built up and looted for campaign purposes.

There is no party to which the masses of the people can look for relief from these schemes and the establishment of just taxation except the Democratic party. It must and will adhere to this cardinal doctrine of equality of burdens and the collection from labor of no more than is needful to operate an economical free government.

"Personal liberty and freedom of speech limited only by that order which is heaven's first law" is the third declaration. It is Democratic to the core, and one needs but read the story of the Philippines of today to recall the suppressions of presses in Cuba and San Juan and Manila by military satraps in recent years to feel the necessity for a reaffirmation of that cardinal doctrine by the American people. The Democratic party alone offers them that opportunity.

"Equal opportunities under government for all, without favoritism for either individuals or classes" is the reading of that diamond faceted dogma of Democracy is enough to commend it to every patriot in the Union who feels resistance to the programme of favoritism, of trust building, of yielding power to wealth and corporations, of making hewers of wood and drawers of water of the humble citizen everywhere, that has been pursued by the Republican party in recent years. It is the essence of Democracy and of true Americanism. Never in the country's history was it more needful to re-establish that doctrine than in these perilous times of Dingleysism and government by syndicates and trusts.

These pillar principles of popular government are not latter day inventions or the property of any particular Democrat or faction of the party. They are the first great articles of faith that bound the Democracy of every member of the party. If they have been obscured by temporary issues in past contests, yet they have not been ignored or abandoned. But the day has come, the hour is at hand, when they should be advanced once more to the heads of the columns that are coming from the east and the west, the north and the south, to give triumphant battle to the dragon of Republicanism and his brood of centralists, syndicates, trusts, office mongers and abettors of imperialism!

DEATH TO PATRIOTISM.

Love of Country Is Being Destroyed by Protectionism.

Professor John Bascom of Williams college contributes an able article on the protection fetish, in which he claims that it is destructive of patriotism. He says in part:

"The fullest, freest expression of national strength is patriotism. All other gains include themselves in this one magnificent product. Free institutions, if developed along their true lines of growth, especially favor patriotism. If turned aside from the public welfare, they are especially inimical to it. The sense of justice, of civic conditions essentially the same for all under the public weal, is the foundation of love of country. In equality of opportunities, the grasping temper of the strong, are most unfavorable to that good will which should incite men in pursuing their common welfare."

"Protectionism as developed in the United States is profoundly opposed to patriotism. It begets a temper forgetful of the public welfare, exacting in private claims and full of personal strife. This is its own inner disposition, and, once established as a public policy, it carries this disposition with it everywhere in all forms of civic action."

"The little kernel of sound theory that may in the beginning have lain at the bottom of protection was shortly lost sight of in a greedy struggle between ever increasing claimants to retain old and win new advantages. The common aims for which legislation is ordained were more and more brushed aside, and every man, busily occupied with his own interests, was taught to antagonize them to the interests of others in public affairs. Our civic life became a grove of holly, busy in which each man sought a place for himself. How natural was it that the steel combine, bred and built up on this platform of protection, should, in the recent strike, make no vindication of policy, no appeal to the public, show none of that decent respect for the opinions of mankind which our forefathers thought fitting, but should rely simply on the hard fact of force to maintain and extend the power the public had conceded to it. The temper was, let those workmen whine and propound and propitiate. We know our own business and propose to pursue it in our own way. We will not kick the law because we have grown fat at the public crib. We will not resist combination, because we are the largest combination in the world."

"One of the saddest in the development of our national life has been the spirit of private appropriation as opposed to the public welfare which has taken possession of us. We have no limits to individual enterprise. If a franchise could be secured, no scruples have stood in the way. Legislation which aimed at an equal division of advantages, as in the restricted sale of public lands, has been baffled in every variety of method. Lands which were devoted to public education became the prey of the land grabber. The policy of private thrift, which earned such a foothold in protection, has spread everywhere. Our railroads have been left in the hands of corporations for narrow and personal uses. Private property has grown up in our streets and highways, and the commercial opportunities which have been the fruit of our common enterprise have been converted into personal possessions. The indirect evils of protection have far exceeded its direct evils. A temper has been engendered which has respected no public claim and spared no common privilege."

Reduced to Desperate Shifts.

Some of the desperate shifts resorted to at the eleventh hour by the enemies of Cuba's welfare are sufficient to show that they know their cause to be failing. The speaker is reported to have warned the president of the bad political consequences of keeping faith with Cuba. It may give the next house to the Democrats. To this the ready retort would be that an even surer way of giving it to them would be to exhibit the Republican majority as a set of protection ridden politicians, but we suspect that Mr. Henderson got a sharper and more scornful reply than this if he tried to frighten Mr. Roosevelt away from a moral position by threats of what might happen if he did not run ignominiously from his own words. More ingeniously, but equally futile, is the other idea of clapping a countervailing duty on German and Austrian sugar and so giving the Cubans a practical differential. Aside from the difficulty of doing so legally, the notion of deliberately entering upon a fierce tariff war with Germany and Austria in order to avoid keeping our promises to Cuba is one which might be entertained in Bedlam, but certainly never will be in the White House.—Nation.

Immortal Words.

The occasion of Lincoln's birthday always brings us a flood of eloquence and lofty sentiment, but probably no passage will ever ring louder and longer in the American ear than the immortal words of the great emancipator at Gettysburg:

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Somehow the offender this closing passage is repeated the drier it becomes. It can never grow old.—Boston Globe.

Prosecutor Klinger read his portion of the deposition of Mrs. Apple as soon as court convened this morning and read the questions and replies asked at the time it was taken: Bessie never threatened to leave home except the time she was sick. Did not know her true condition and although told of it did not believe it. An objection to the nature of this sort of examination brought the response from Mr. Klinger that the fact of Mrs. Apple always denying Bessie's true condition was a part of the plot. They intended to keep it away from everybody and then in due make away with the child. The court sustained the objection.

Mrs. Apple's deposition was continued. Bessie did not enlarge any of her dresses. She wore them the same as usual. She was larger, but her limbs and feet were swollen and I thought she was bloated all over. The body was placed in the vault about three hours after death. It was wrapped up and for awhile lay in another room on a chair. I waited until about eight o'clock because I was so busy taking care of Bessie and getting supper. Bessie's father used to make up several of the Call family table. Bessie kept company with but one young man all summer. She did not threaten to leave because Mr. Apple complained Bessie never told me that Dr. Terwilliger told her she was pregnant. She said he told her she was in a bad condition and would have to take good care of herself. I told Mrs. Franklin since this trouble that Bessie was out of her head. I have never talked to anybody about it except Mr. Welty, one of the attorneys for the defense.

Mrs. Catharine Call was the first witness to be directly examined today. Mrs. Call came to her house about 12 o'clock for morphine. She got four or five doses. I went down to Mrs. Apple's Bessie was in bed. She looked rather bad and her eyes were glassy. She didn't talk much. I saw no baby. Did not hear any cry. Did not see Mrs. Apple lock the door. Do not think she did.

Cross Examination—Had nothing to do with disposing of the child. Did not administer the morphine to Bessie. At no time was she informed what the real trouble was.

Henry B. Call, the last witness, had next to take the stand. Known defendant all her life. Well acquainted with her disposition. As a very kind, especially toward children of whom she was very fond.

Cross examination—Doesn't know of the Call's being morphine takers. His mother keeps it, but only takes it when she has spells with her heart. Witness was excused for the present.

Mrs. Olive Franklin, who was on the stand yesterday was called again by the defense—had lived near Bessie Call for a year. Her disposition was kind.

Clifford Franklin—Knows the defendant and has for several years. Prior to her present trouble her reputation was good. She was kind to children and made much over Mrs. Bessie Call for about twelve years and testified that the girl's reputation was good. Mrs. Charles Smith, Ella Dilling, Mrs. Emma Creps, Frank Soddars, Mrs. Soddars and Lucy Coats, were examined as to their knowledge of Bessie Call's general reputation, and all declared it was of the best. Some had known her all her life and others for a shorter period of years. They spoke of her being unusually kind and always peaceful and law abiding.

Mrs. J. W. Nailer, of Cridersville said she had examined carefully into Bessie's reputation at the time she applied to become a member of the Macabees, and found it to be unusually good.

Cross examined—Knew Bessie since last April and had met her many times considered her good and kind. The Macabees are assisting in the defense.

The examination into the defendant's reputation continued. Mrs. T. D. Noher said Bessie had lived in her father's family all her life until within the past three years. She bore the best reputation and was good and kind to children. Mrs. Emma Creps, a sister of the witness, testified the same.

Mrs. Dilla Butts—Have no real means of knowing Bessie Call's reputation. Never heard anything about her that was disparaging.

Dr. T. M. Johnson—Have been a practicing physician for seventeen years. Have come in contact with cases of puerperal mania. A lengthy hypothetical question was read by defendant's attorney, as to the time of the birth of her child, under conditions which surrounded it, especially considering the effect morphine had upon her, and from this assumed statement the witness was asked what he would conclude as to whether or not Bessie Call was at the time the crime was committed, sane or insane. As some of the assertions contained in the question were acknowledged by the defense yet to be proven, the court sustained the objection of the state and the witness was withdrawn for the present.

It was agreed between defendant's counsel and the Prosecutor that the prisoner might take the stand to support the proposition but not for the purpose of a general cross examination.

She was first interrogated as to her condition during the period of pregnancy—she stated that her limbs were badly swollen. She could not sleep at night and would lie awake until the early hours. Took morphine to induce sleep. It was frequently applied before it took effect. Her mother gave her morphine in the winter of 1901. It made her very wild. Was present when a child was born. She realized that she was pregnant a ten days before confinement. Lived with her mother for the past two years. Their relations were pleasant.

There was no cross examination of the defendant retired for the present. Court then adjourned for the hour.

There was the usual jam about the doors when the hour of court to open arrived, and although enough gained admittance to fill all the available seats, the outside corridors were filled with people who were waiting to fill up what cracks or crevices might be left.

Many were disappointed in not being present when the fair defendant made her first appearance on the stand, and the report having gained circulation that her testimony was being taken made everybody so anxious to get a position where they could see and hear. The examination of the prisoner, however, concluded at noon, and when next again it will be to be put under searching cross examination by the state's attorney. While on the morning she was calm and composed but her answers were scarcely above a whisper.

Having laid the basis for the theoretical question, Dr. Johnson testified but not having arrived at a verdict took the stand. He had been a practicing nurse for twelve years, was familiar with the effects of morphine on a person, and had formerly administered it to a state was then put to the witness. He was asked to state whether he had administered Bessie Call under the conditions described, a sure sign at the time of the killing of the child. The doctor's answer was that she was insane.

Cross examined—Was familiar with puerperal mania. Only one case of health may be needed. If a person had used morphine it might show its effect in the child. Never made insanity, a special feature in the back, and reached symptoms of insanity. The fact that she was restless and that she had her child while in pain and under the influence of morphine, given by an experienced person, was abundant proof of insanity. It might be under any other conditions.

The same question was put to Dr. Johnson, who replied, that if she was in the condition described he would term it a clear case of insanity, a mental aberration. A case similar was described where the patient was in a state of hallucination; imagined strange things, seeing objects, and it might last for a few minutes a lifetime. He did not believe that mother killing her child under the circumstances described was such an act is unnatural. Worry in it would be one of the prime extraneous causes.

Cross examination—If the defendant had committed the crime for the purpose of hiding her shame it would still depend on her condition at the time of the crime as to whether it was insane. If that condition was such as described in the hypothetical question she was undoubtedly insane under such an attack.

Dr. A. Jones has been a practicing physician for five years. Is familiar with the use of morphine. From conditions described, the use of the drug and symptoms before and after the use of it, would consider that Bessie Call at the time, was insane. Do not think any sane woman would kill a child whether it were legitimate or not. At the time of going to prison other expert testimony from general local physicians was being heard.

Could a Crime

Of the Nature of Bessie
Call's be CommittedIs the Opinion Given by Several of Lima's Leading Physicians.The Pair Defendant Makes Her
First Appearance on the Witness Stand but Will be Recalled.

There was no dropping off in numbers when court opened again this morning, on the second day of the trial of Bessie Call. In order to accommodate more of the eager spectators, extra chairs were brought in and these were all soon occupied.

Taking up the case from the point where it was interrupted at the hour of going to press yesterday afternoon the examination continued as follows:

Dr. Dice stated that he had assisted at the post mortem examination with doctors Burton and Weadock. It was born alive. The cord tied about the neck undoubtedly caused its death. He made no examination of the depth of the wound in its head. The post mortem was conducted at Bennett's morgue.

Dr. E. G. Weadock who attended the post mortem stated that death was due to strangulation. The lungs were found to have contained air, an evidence that the child had breathed and cried. Under cross examination witness stated that a child yet unborn might have breathed in the natural way and that it would be impossible to say definitely whether or not this child had done so.

Dr. Burton was coroner at the time the murder was committed. In his opinion death was caused by the penetrating stab wound in the head. There were also evidences of strangulation. The string was still about the child's neck and tied in a tight knot. The wound in the head was about half an inch long and one eighth of an inch wide. Mr. Ridenour asked permission to cross examine the witness before he was permitted to testify regarding the defendant's conversation with him. The court permitted it. Witness in reply to questions said he told the defendant she would get off easier if she made a full confession, and also tell whether anybody else had anything else to do with it. Under these conditions the state did not insist on any further examination.

Gera Long was the first lady witness called. Her home is at Yoder, near Bessie Call's. Was a frequent caller. Was there on the 31st of October. Did not see Bessie. Mrs. Catharine Call was at the house and went to Bessie's room with Mrs. Apple. The door was locked after they went in. While there witness heard a baby cry. The sound came from the room in which Mrs. Call and Mrs. Apple entered.

Under cross-examination Mrs. Long disclosed the fact that she had a temper all her own, and the spectators enjoyed several laughs at the expense of Mr. Ridenour who conducted the examination. She was not shaken as to her direct examination and gave the time as to the occurrence about 3 o'clock. She knew the time because she was in the room where the clock was.

Mrs. Franklin was at Bessie Call's home after the child was born. Defendant asked witness if she ever heard of such an awful thing. Witness asked her why she did it. Defendant replied that she didn't know. She was "not herself" and didn't know what she was doing. She looked pale and distressed.

Nora Grafton said she had known defendant ever since she could remember. Lived near her home. Was there on the afternoon of the 31st of October. It was shortly after 12 o'clock. She saw Bessie and talked to her. Bessie said she was sick. Was there again after 4 o'clock. Had a conversation with Bessie. She heard a noise that sounded as though it came from the stairway near the bed. It sounded like the cry of a small child. Bessie appeared dazed. She talked about an opera and said it was a good play. Nothing was said about a child.

Cross-examined—insisted that the cry she heard sounded like a child. All the time she was there Bessie talked about the opera she had been to. When witness was there in the morning they sent her to Call's, half a mile away, to get morphine for Bessie. Old Mrs. Call put it up. Gave it to Mrs. Apple and saw her give it to Bessie. Saw her give it the second time. Saw her get up and walk about the room. After two doses were given she became quiet. Witness left about 3 o'clock and returned after 4. She stayed about fifteen minutes. Bessie complained of having cramps. She was in a great deal of agony and moaned continually. Both before she went to Call's and afterwards, she kept asking for morphine and more was given to her. Her eyes looked glassy the last time she was there and didn't talk natural.

After a ten minutes' recess McDougal Emmet, a reporter on the Times-Democrat, testified concerning an interview with the defendant on the day of her commitment. During that interview the defendant confessed to the killing of the child and told the manner of doing it. Witness at the time appeared to be under a great mental strain and had to be asked the questions put to her several times.

"Doc" Apple, stepfather of the girl, testified that he knew nothing about the birth of the child. He was near home all day but did not see Bessie. At this point the state rested.

The jury was dismissed during the argument of a motion by Mr. Ridenour to have a verdict of not guilty returned. He argued in its support that it was impossible to tell, as shown by the evidence of Dr. Weadock, whether or not the child was alive or dead. Again, that according to the testimony of the state's own witnesses, the defendant, at the time of making her statements, did not clearly know what she was saying.

The motion was overruled and with the jury once more in their places, the defense offered several depositions, the first of which was that of Mrs. Nellie Apple, mother of the prisoner, stated that she is 22 years of age. Health was poor during the time she was in a delicate condition. Pain in back of head and swelling of her limbs and feet. Dr. Terwilliger waited on her and she received local treatment, such as plasters and liniments. She suffered all summer, and toward the last grew worse. She wasn't home when she first complained of labor pains. Called me the night she returned. The child was born Thursday evening about 4 o'clock. Her condition was very sick in the morning. I did everything I could do, but she was in misery. She seemed to be in a kind of a stupor. Said she was going to one of the neighbors and got up and put her shawl on. It was the first I knew she was out of her head. She attempted to leave twice, but I wouldn't let her go. She called for morphine in the forenoon, but I didn't want to give it to her. I had given her morphine before, but not in this case; three times during the winter. It always made her slightly, and that's the reason I didn't want to give it to her this time. It had the same effect each time. The first time she thought my husband was going to kill her, and she was arranging flowers for her coffin. Dr. Burton has the size of doses I gave her. I gave the powders to him. Rev. Call's wife fixed them. In the afternoon when the child was delivered I gave her morphine to relieve the pain. Bessie had none of the symptoms of a person about to be delivered of a child. She was restless and insisted upon being up about the house. She was given two doses of morphine within a short time. It quieted her a little, but not very much. She talked wild. I did not know she was about to be delivered until the little one was brought into the world. Nobody else was present. No one came between that time and when it was killed. I cut the cord with the shears. I got the shears out of the machine drawer. Bessie was lying on the bed. After I cut the cord I took the child up and wrapped it in an apron and placed it back on the bed. I left the shears on the bed where Bessie was. I had no idea that the girl would injure the child. I never dreamed of such a thing, although she was not in her right mind. I was so unnerved I could hardly get out of the room. After the birth of the child she grew more quiet. I walked out of the room. I put some water on the stove. Returned in a short time. I didn't leave her long. I found that she had killed her child. She was more restless and flighty than when I left her. She was tossing her arms about and staring wildly. She still held the shears in her hand with the points up. I took them away from her, but she had them clasped so tightly I had to exert considerable strength. I told her what she had done, but she didn't reply. She raised up and got out of bed, went into another room and laid down on the lounge. When I told her several hours later that she had killed the child she broke down and cried. It was about 7 o'clock in the evening before she appeared rational. The string around the child's neck was taken from the little apron I had wrapped it in. After she realized what she had done she appeared to be frightened and said she would not have done it for the world. I heard her say: "Oh dear, oh dear." Later she said her head was nearly bursting. Before the birth of her own child she loved everything, especially children, and nothing pleased her more than to get hold of them and play with them. She always did so when she went to church, if there were any there. She never had much male company. She was a member of Garfield church and always attended services and Sunday school. She made her home with me for three years; before that she lived with her grandmother.

Witness stated in conclusion that she was suffering with lung trouble, and was being treated by Dr. Terwilliger. It is impossible for her to speak above a whisper.

SETON-THOMPSON'S CHARM.

Two Great Illustrated Lectures Next Friday.

The success of Ernest Seton-Thompson on the lecture platform has been phenomenal. During the past season he has spoken twice a day in order to comply with the demand for his services. Everywhere crowded houses have welcomed him, and always on afternoon occasions, the greater portion of the audience has been children.

Some, who have never heard him, wonder how any man can draw such houses and keep it up wherever he goes, or however often he returns.

The charm of Seton-Thompson's art is in its simplicity, its novelty and the favor of the forest which he imparts to all his descriptive work. Whether he is analyzing the tracks of the hare, imitating the challenge to battle of the bull elk, or repeating the mocking bark of the pin gopher, he is all the time carrying his audience farther back from the foothills into the Rockies and getting them nearer to the true life of Nimrod. The whole human family is his public, because every human being loves wild animals.

The people of Lima will have a chance to hear him on Friday, when he will lecture at the Faurot opera house both afternoon and evening.

It is a trying and almost useless undertaking to describe this handsome line. But below follows a few which is but a poor effort at description:

Corded and hemstitched with French knots, cluster tucks, same colors as the above. $3.75

A few colored silk waists in taffeta and peau de soie have been reduced from $5.00 to $3.00 and $4.00

Rev. Marguerite St. Omer Briggs, 35 Mount Calm Street, Detroit, Michigan, Lecturer for the W. C. T. U., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—My professional work has for the past twenty years brought me into hundreds of homes of sickness, and I have had plenty of opportunity to witness the sufferings of wives and mothers who from want, ignorance or carelessness, are slowly but surely being dragged to death, principally with female weakness and irregularities of the sex. I believe you will be pleased to know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured more women than any other agency that has come under my notice. Hundreds of women owe their life and health to you to-day, and, therefore, I can conscientiously advise sick women to try it."—MARGUERITE ST. OMER BRIGGS.

$5000 FORFEIT IF THE ABOVE LETTER IS NOT GENUINE.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or prolapse of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

ROWS IN THE SENATE

Dramatic Encounters Witnessed In the Upper House.

THE BENTON-FOOTE IMBROGLIO.

Mississippi Senator Drew a Revolver When Assaulted by the Missouriian. The Assault on Sumner—Other Incidents Recalled by the Tillman-McLaurin Trouble.

Since the organization of the government Benjamin R. Tillman is the only senator of the United States who has struck one of his colleagues. Senator John L. McLaurin, in a session of the senate, says the Washington correspondent of the Kansas City Star. The committee on privileges and elections has searched the records and the Congressional library in vain for a precedent. Several times the lie has passed, but nowhere in the history of the senate did one senator ever strike another in the deliberations of that body.

Of dramatic senate episodes, the one in which Benton and Foote figured in 1850 was perhaps the most intense. It was the nearest approach to a tragedy in the senate. Senator Foote of Mississippi had in the most intemperate language attacked the motives of northern senators in their policy toward the south. Later a newspaper article appeared containing personal references to Benton, which Benton claimed Foote had supervised and approved. Benton rose to speak to a question of personal privilege.

In the midst of this debate Senator Foote interrupted the senator from Missouri and for the time had the floor. While he was making some reference to Benton the latter walked excitedly toward him. The report of the alarm is very explicit in stating that Senator Benton was unarmed. He made no sign of being about to make an assault, but his angry face alarmed the senator from Mississippi. Senator Foote started to run away, and Senator Benton increased his speed. As Benton came after him Foote hurried along and drew a five chambered revolver as he ran. Benton was in full chase. He did not see the weapon, but was apparently very anxious to overtake Foote. Senator Dodge of Wisconsin reached Benton and begged him for God's sake to do nothing which would compromise the senate. Benton was finally persuaded to turn and retreat his steps. He looked over his shoulder and caught the first sight of the senator from Mississippi with the revolver in his hand. This aroused him to a frenzy of desperation. He broke away from Dodge and rushed back at Foote. He stopped within a few feet of him. Tearing open his waistcoat and his shirt, he bared his breast to the Mississippi senator, who was brandishing the revolver as he turned, when he saw that he could run no farther. Benton stood within a few feet of him and, with his naked bosom as a target, dramatically cried: "I am not armed. I have no pistol. I disdain to carry firearms. Let him fire. Stand out of the way and let the assassin fire!"

As may be imagined, there was a scene of the most intense excitement in the old senate, now the chamber of the hall of justice of the United States supreme court. Covering at the front of the president's desk was the thoroughly frightened Foote. Towering over him was the gigantic Benton. Slowly Foote wrote. He sank into a chair, and finally Dickinson of New York took the revolver from him. A senate committee investigated the matter and did not require the belligerents to apologize.

The attack on Senator Sumner of Massachusetts by Preston Smith Brooks, a South Carolina congressman, was a cowardly assault. Senator Sumner had delivered a speech entitled "The Crime Against Kansas," which, because of certain expressions, had incensed the members from South Carolina. After the senate had adjourned, May 22, 1856, Brooks entered the chamber and approached Mr. Sumner from behind while the senator was seated at his desk and struck him repeatedly on the head with a cane until Mr. Sumner fell insensible on the floor. Several southerners, among them Mr. Barksdale of Mississippi, stood near with drawn revolvers and prevented any interference. One of the committees of the house subsequently reported a resolution favoring the expulsion of Brooks, but the final vote was 121 ayes and 95 nays. As this was less than two-thirds Brooks was not expelled.

At a later day in a house debate Brooks had an angry colloquy with Representative Anson Burlingame of Massachusetts. Brooks was challenged by Burlingame to a duel. It was accepted, the duel to be fought with rifles in Canada. Brooks, however, failed to appear for the combat on the plea that he would have "to pass through the enemy's country." He resigned his seat and was unanimously re-elected. The south generally upheld him and gave him presents of many costly canes and other testimonials. He died in Washington Jan. 27, 1897, less than a year after the assault on Sumner.

In the Voorhees-Ingalls episode the senator from Kansas charged that the senator from Indiana once declared that every soldier in the Union army should be branded "I am Lincoln's dog." Voorhees rose to reply, white with passion. He said that the senator from Kansas had raised up an old campaign charge that had been used against him in Indiana and long since exploded. It was known to all the people of Indiana and to all who were conversant enough with the facts to tell the story that he had reference to certain spies in the army. This the senator from Kansas well knew, and in stating the case as he did he had told a deliberate lie. Voorhees apologized to the senate for his unparliamentary language.

Replying to a personal attack by Lamar, Senator Conkling once said, "I respect the rules of the senate too much to violate them, but I declare that if the senator from Mississippi would repeat that language to me outside this chamber I would denounce him as a liar and a coward."

Senator Money of Mississippi called Senator Wellington a liar in recent years and apologized to the senate for his language.

NERVE FORCE DISCOVERIES

Their Probable Practical Results as Foreseen by Dr. A. F. Matthews.

Dr. Albert F. Matthews, writing in the March Century of "The Nature of Nerve Force," apropos of the experiments made by Dr. Jacques Loeb and himself, says in conclusion:

It will probably be asked what are likely to be the practical results of these conclusions? It is of course impossible to predict what practical results may follow in the future, but it appears to me probable that the immediate practical consequences will very likely occur in the following directions:

First, the physical explanation thus attained of one of the phenomena of life will, if it proves true, bring us a step nearer the understanding of other life phenomena, the artificial synthesis of living matter and the prolongation of life. There is apparently no inherent reason why a man should die, except our ignorance of the conditions governing the reaction going on in his protoplasm.

Second, it looks as if we had at last secured a rational basis of pharmacology. If the poisonous action of salts is due to the electrical charges their particles bear and we are able to offset this action by particles with the opposite charge, there is every reason to believe that the poisonous action of drugs is also so caused and may in the same manner be counteracted. The credit for this work should be given to Professor Loeb.

Third, we have at last secured, apparently, a basis for attacking the great problem of fermentation, for the peculiar fermentative or catalytic powers of colloidal solutions are probably in their essence electrical. A solution of the problem of fermentation probably means a revolution in some of the great industries of the world, for it will enable us to build up our foodstuffs from the soil, the air and sunlight, a power of controlling chemical phenomena the results of which can at present hardly be conceived. In the absence of experimental data it is impossible to say definitely whether our results will ultimately illuminate the problem of fermentation or not, but they at least suggest a means of attacking this problem, and I think I do not overstate the probable consequences of the solution of that problem.

WHISTLING CHOIR.

An Unusual Form of Music Introduced in a Georgia Sunday School.

J. T. Lockhart, superintendent of the Bevan Baptist Sunday school of Augusta, Ga., is responsible for a new departure in church music, says the New York Commercial Advertiser, and through his efforts the innovation has been eminently successful.

Mr. Lockhart obtained his idea from "The Burgomaster," which recently appeared in Augusta. He heard "The Tale of the Kangaroo" whistled, and when the audience joined in the chorus the effect struck him as being so unique that he at once decided to put it in use in his choir. Mr. Lockhart talked the matter over with the Rev. J. H. Oliver, pastor of the church, and it was decided to try the plan the following Sunday. The Sunday school numbers 391 members. On the Sunday when Mr. Lockhart had planned to introduce whistling music the exercises were opened by a short talk on the sacredness of all melody and harmony and of the praise that could be rendered to God in every form of music. Mr. Lockhart then told the pupils that they were going to try a new form of music. He said that as a great many of the young men who had really good voices would not sing because they had never been trained in music he had decided to form a whistling choir.

The superintendent had no difficulty in inducing the boys and young men to come forward and whistle.

The Men, Not the Prince.

(Tribute to Henry of Prussia.)

Not to the brother of a king.

A prince of royal birth.

My muse her little song would sing.

But to the man of worth.

A king is but an accident.

Of earth's barbaric youth.

While character is God's intent

Forged on his anvil, Truth.

Though empire pass and thrones decay

And princes are forgot.

There is no limit to the way

Of broad, enabling thought.

We owe the land you represent

A mighty debt, Sir Guest.

That land where giant intellect

And genius bloom in best.

So to this democratic mart

We welcome not the peer.

But the true man of brain and heart;

Shake hands, Sir Prince. Good cheer!

LAST MAN'S BROTHERHOOD

Sole Survivor of Thirty-two Drank a Tumbler by Himself.

Standing alone at the table in the dining room of his home in Philadelphia as the bell in Independence hall struck 12 the other night, Walter W. Bell drank to the memory of thirty-two comrades of the Last Man's brotherhood, of which Mr. Bell is the lone survivor, says the New York Herald.

The association was formed by thirty-two men connected with morning newspapers at a dinner on Feb. 10, 1856, in Barney Fields' old restaurant at the northeast corner of Ninth and Arch streets. It was then agreed that all there should be a yearly banquet. All the members were men who delighted in good fellowship, who could tell humorous stories and sing the old songs effectively at the festive board. More than one had appeared on the stage.

At the first dinner a bottle of Madeira wine was corked up, placed in a basket, labeled and kept "for the last man." Its seal was not broken until the other night. Mr. Bell, who for a quarter of a century was the foreman of the composing room of the Philadelphia Inquirer, is sixty-eight years old, well preserved, in excellent health and the head of a real estate office.

Strangely enough, at the first dinner Mr. Bell proposed a toast to "the last man" and recited a few lines descriptive of the last day of the club. There was pathos in the answer to the toast made by Robert Dyllall in a poem of his own in the following year entitled, "The Cypress Crown." Then the answer made hold to bid for the honor of being the last man. Mr. Dyllall's bid was a strong one, but he was twenty-four years older than Mr. Bell and dropped out of the race eleven years ago when nearly fourteen years of age. His answer to the toast given by Mr. Bell concludes:

"The cypress crown, his cypress crown,"
"The cypress crown, his cypress crown,"
"The cypress crown, his cypress crown,"

"During the first four years of the existence of the brotherhood its ranks remained unbroken. No member was absent from its dinners. In 1861 three died. The war came, and of ten members who went out there returned. One was killed before Petersburg. Twenty-two men sat down a decade later in the hotel at Ninth and Bainbridge streets kept by a woman who afterward became "Squire" McMillan's wife. They toasted the memory of eleven last men. Year after year the feast went on. Sometimes there would be no new absentees, sometimes several, until in 1891 there were only three others—Mr. Bell, Robert Dyllall and William Eckert. In the following year Bell and Eckert were no more."

One year ago the two pledged to gather the memories of the thirty-one. On Nov. 14, last year, Mr. Eckert died.

La Grippe Quickly Cured.

"In the winter of 1895 and 1899 I was taken down with a severe attack of what is called La Grippe," says F. L. Hewitt, a prominent druggist of Windsor, Ill. "The only medicine I used was two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It broke up the cold and stopped the coughing like magic and I have never since been troubled with Grippe." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can always be depended upon to break up a severe cold and ward off any threatened attack of pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, too, which makes it the most desirable and one of the most popular preparations in use for these ailments. For sale by Wm. M. Melville, old post office corner.

QUEBEC IN WINTER.

HOW THE CITADEL CITY ENJOYS ITS ICE AND SNOW.

Carnival Week a Period of Great Hospitality—Novel Features and Sports of the Unique Festival—King Frost Defied.

Although the advent of February is popularly supposed in the United States to mark the decline of the frost king, in Quebec it finds the icy monarch at the zenith of his power. Then come the merry days of the winter carnival. The quaint old city puts on its gayest garb and assumes a holiday air and for days gives itself up to the enjoyment of winter sports.

Tobogganing, snowshoeing, skating, curling and racing on the ice, etc., all add their quota to the sum of enjoyment. Even a blizzard fails to cool the ardor of the revelers, but rather gives zest to the general hilarity.

The sports held this year in Quebec eclipsed even the famous carnivals of 1894, 1896 and 1900. For several weeks the old town had been in a whirl of excitement preparing the eight days' programme, which included an extensive array of typical Canadian sports and introduced many new features. The winter has been a magnificent one, and all the various points of interest to visitors have been seen at their best.

Quebec puts on furs with the first blast of wind that comes down from the north and keeps them on until the sudden coming of spring drives away the ice and snow. The river St. Lawrence becomes a sea of drifting ice floes and miniature bergs, which crash and grind their way to the gulf. After a time the river freezes solid, and the opposite shores and the island of Orleans can be reached by iceboats.

There are many drives to places where nature has been particularly generous, such as the Falls of Montmorency, to Kent's House and Beauport. The streets of the city are filled with sleighs, many of which are fitted with merrily for children people. The young people, both men and women, form snowshoeing parties and tramp for miles over the snow covered hills. They skate in big rinks, which are ablaze with electricity, and glide on toboggans over the well kept slides of Dufferin terrace.

Snow forts and ice palaces are met at every turn, in the lower as well as

TOBOGGANING AT QUEBEC.

In the upper town. To many, however, these are the least attractive features of the carnival period in northern Canada. More delightful are the racy checked, dark eyed French-Canadian girls, clad in warm furs or gay blanket suits; the gorgeous, rollicking snowshoers and their merry French songs and the social festivities, all of which are unchangeable.

The carnival started this year by the opening of the picturesque toboggan slide on Dufferin terrace by their excellencies Earl and Lady Minto. An interesting feature of the opening was the conferring of the title of honorary chief on Lord Minto by the Hon. Indians of Lorette. Following this came a sliding exhibition on Dufferin terrace by the Quebec Ladies' Snowshoe club in costume.

Indoor amusements included fancy dress carnivals at the Quebec skating rink and the annual citizens' ball at Chateau Frontenac in honor of Lord and Lady Minto. This is always the great social event of the carnival and this season was attended by the elite of Canada. Visitors from the United States were able to obtain invitations to this affair without trouble.

They have a talented Frenchman in Quebec whose remarkable ice statuary in various public squares attracted a great deal of attention at the carnival. What at first puzzles visitors to Quebec in winter is the apparent indifference of the native to cold. They find out the secret after awhile. It is to put on all the clothes they own and cover the ears with a fur cap and the feet with anetles. Quebec girls wear so many clothes that they actually stand knee deep in snow for hours in the crisp but piercingly cold air without the slightest discomfort.

Taken altogether Quebec's winter carnival is a period of tumultuous hilarity and brilliant pictures. The American tourist in search of novelty finds it there to his heart's content. Add to this the fact that to all intents and purposes Quebec is a French city and the peculiar charm of this winter festival is explained.

A WOMAN'S GREAT SUCCESS

Lottie Blair Parker Has Four Plays Running in New York Theaters.

Four of New York's first class theaters are at the present time presenting simultaneously plays from the prolific pen of Lottie Blair Parker. No other woman dramatist has ever approached such a record, and but one man, Clyde Fitch, has had so many of his works running simultaneously in one city. She is therefore entitled to be considered America's most successful woman playwright.

"Way Down East" is having its third run. Miss Grace George is presented "Under Southern Skies," the "Lights of Home" is being played at the Fourteenth Street theater, and "A Colonial Rose," her newest work, is being given on Broadway.

"Way Down East" has the distinction of being the best paying piece ever credited to a woman. Three companies have been playing it almost incessantly since its first production in Chicago, and not one of them has ever had a losing week. It is said that the three cleared $250,000 last season.

Mrs. Parker was formerly an actress and for several years was a member of the Boston theater stock company. There she met Harvey D. Parker, who became her husband. Afterward she appeared in support of Lawrence Barrett and later played "Hazel Kirke."

In the meantime Lottie Blair, as she then appeared on the playbills, began to dabble in the art of playwriting, planning a plot, completing an act, then tearing up the manuscript. Finally a New York paper offered a prize for the best one act play. Mrs. Parker entered the contest and submitted a sketch called "White Roses." This did not take first honors, but Daniel Frohman, who was one of the judges, took a fancy to it and produced it. This was Mrs. Parker's first success as a playwright.

Since then she has been steadily producing dramatic works, nearly all of which have been successful. There is nothing about Mrs. Parker's appearance to suggest the successful dramatist. She is rather domestic in her tastes. She is of medium height, and her brown hair is just beginning to be touched with gray.

SUCCUMBS TO CUPID.

Senator Hanna's Eldest Daughter to Wed a Cleveland Man.

Ever since Miss Mabel Hanna, eldest daughter of the senator, made her social debut she has manifested the utmost indifference toward young men and offered small encouragement to the youth of her social set. But at last she succumbed to Cupid's wiles and has herself announced her engagement to Harry A. Parsons of Cleveland. The attachment between the young people is of several years' standing.

ing, but it was only during the last campaign that Mr. Parsons became socially intimate at the Hanna home.

It is stated by close friends of Senator Hanna that he is opposed to the marriage on account of the delicate health of Miss Mabel. When a young child, she had a severe attack of scarlet fever and since then has suffered from a nervous complaint, which has somewhat impaired her constitution. She is now twenty-four years old.

Senator Hanna is a known admirer of the self made man, and the rumor that his opposition is based on Mr. Parsons' lack of wealth and social prestige is denied by the senator's intimates. The wedding will take place in April.

THE PINGPONG CRAZE.

Sudden Furore in Society Created by Table Tennis.

FAD SPREADING TO THE CLUBS.

New Game Which Came From Australia Gains Wide Popularity in the United States—Outfits Can Be Bought For From $2.50 Up to $10. Rules Governing Play.

No indoor game of recent years has created such a sudden furore as pingpong, says the Chicago Tribune. Its "far flung battle line," extending from Australia to half way across the American continent, is rapidly extending westward and bids fair to soon encircle the globe. Chicago has the craze well developed, and Omaha, Detroit, Kansas City and other western cities have incipient symptoms.

Pingpong, table tennis, pömpöng, whiff-whaff and gossima are some of the names by which the new game is known in different parts, but the first two seem to be the most popular.

For two seasons the game has been popular in Australia, New Zealand, India and the British Isles. Early last fall it was introduced into the United States and Canada, and inside of two months it had caught the popular fancy.

G. S. Cox, who managed the tour of Harry Vardon in the United States and who recently returned from a visit to London, reports that the tournaments in the English metropolises attract large crowds and that the outfits there cost as high as $75. These expensive affairs are used in swiftness and are made with gold and silver sidepots and other costly accessories. So far the game has not gone to such extremes on this side of the water, and outfits can be had from $2.50 to $10.

A Chicago dealer is authority for the statement that at least 50 per cent of the people whose names appear in the blue book are possessors of a pingpong outfit. From homes the game is spreading to the clubs, and visitors on any night to the Winter club, University club and Chicago Athletic association can hear the ping and pong of the celluloid balls as they come in contact with the rackets of the players. Following the wake of the clubs come the hotels, the Virginia being one of the first to secure an outfit for the benefit of its guests. Bowling alley keepers who have the space are contemplating installing the game, and Captain A. C. Anson has already made negotiations for an equipment.

With the game catering on at such a pace there appears to be every probability of the leading clubs playing matches, and the same condition of affairs exists here as in London, where the National Sporting club has been obliged to set apart special rooms for the game and where the billiard halls are practically deserted.

Pingpong is a sort of miniature lawn tennis, which can be played on any fair sized dining table, although for special matches there are specified measurements. The ball, which is constructed of celluloid, is slightly smaller than a golf ball and feels much like a blown bird's egg. It is about five inches in circumference. The rackets, bats or battledores, as they are variously termed, are light rattan affairs covered with parchment, sheep or calf skin, according to their prices.

The laws of the game are as follows:

1. The game is for two players. They shall stand one at each end of the table. The player who first delivers the ball shall be called the server and the other the striker out.

2. The server shall stand behind the table and within the limits of the width of the table.

3. The service shall be strictly underhand and from behind the table; that is to say, at the time of striking the ball the racket may not be over the table, and no part of the racket, except the handle, may be above the waist.

4. The ball must drop on the table beyond the net and in then in play. If it drops into the net or off the table, it is called a "fault" and counts to the striker out.

5. There is no second service except when the ball touches the net or posts in passing over and drops on the table beyond the net, when it is called a "let," and another service is allowed.

6. If the ball in play strikes any object above or around the table before it drops on the table (net or posts excepted), it counts against the striker.

7. The server wins a stroke if the striker out fails to return the service or the ball in play.

8. The striker out wins a stroke if the server serves a "fault" or fails to return the ball in play or returns the ball so that it falls off the table.

9. No volleying is allowed, whether intentional or otherwise, and if any ball shall be touched before striking the table it counts against the player touching it. Should, however, a ball pass the limits of the table without dropping on it it is dead and counts against the striker.

10. The method of scoring shall be by points, twenty points up constituting a game, the service changing after each five points scored. Should the score reach twelve all it shall be called "game all," and the best nine points shall decide the game.

Special match regulations: Size of table, 9 feet by 5 feet, 2 feet 6 inches high, table to be painted dark green, with 3/4 inch white lines around the edges. Height of net, 6 1/2 inches.

Some players prefer to count as in lawn tennis, the points being precisely the same. At present most of the Chicago games are singles, but by putting the line down the center of the table doubles can be played. In England the regulation sets are provided with side nets, which are several inches higher than the net itself. These are used to prevent players from returning the ball into their opponents' half or the table outside of the posts.

BARON DE CONSTANT'S AIM

Desires to Promote Good Will Between France and America.

Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, a member of the permanent league tribunal of arbitration and one of the most distinguished public men of France, is the guest in Washington of M. Cambon, the French ambassador. The baron is also a member of the French chamber of deputies, representing the province of Maine, and was formerly in the diplomatic service of France and is thus thoroughly representative of his countrymen.

He is devoting himself, as he explained recently, toward the development of a better state of feeling between the United States and France. He has given much of his private means in establishing committees throughout the interior of France with a view of enlightening the people of that country on the affairs of the United States, and his visit to the United States is in connection with that object. He has had a long talk with the president on the subject.

When seen at the French embassy by a representative of the Philadelphia Press, Baron d'Estournelles said:

"France knows almost nothing of America. At the same time the United States knows nothing of France. This mutual ignorance is dangerous to both countries. The two republics are so different that there is really no rivalry possible between them, but they can benefit each other immensely if they can only devise means of knowing each other a little more intimately.

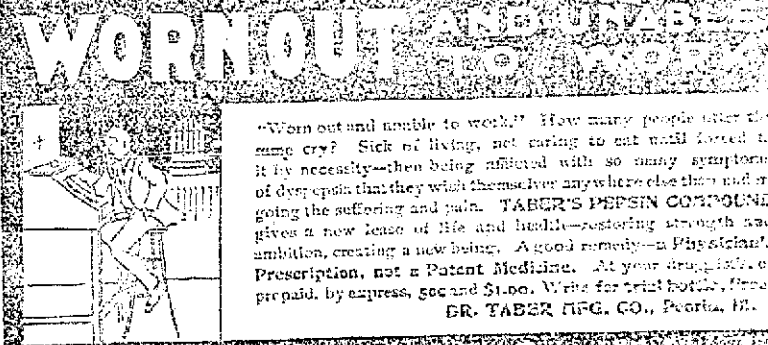

"That is why I have taken up this subject and have sought to arouse public attention to it on both sides of the water. We had Frenchmen, known as 'doctores,' delivering lectures and addresses through all the principal towns of the French provinces. The people were warned of the danger of their ignorance, especially regarding the marvelous progress of the United States.

"Having done this much in France, it seems desirable to adopt somewhat similar plans in this country in order that the people of the United States may learn from the example of France the many refinements of production in our country. This can best be done by having various universities, chambers of commerce and other important organizations designate certain young men to visit France and spend a year or two among us, learning the methods of our people."

Baron d'Estournelles will visit Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and other points to enlist the co-operation of educators and others in this comprehensive programme.

The Democratic city primary election is over and the Democracy of the city is now lined up in solid phalanx for the support and election of the excellent ticket that was placed in nomination by the voters yesterday. The day was an ideal one for democracy but in spite of that fact the vote was very light in several wards, a fact that is accounted for by reason of the very early and very short campaign that was made by the various candidates. The principal contests were those between the candidates for the mayoralty nomination and those for water works trustee but all of the campaigning that was done was clean and friendly and the candidates who were defeated are now the most enthusiastic supporters of the nominees.

The ticket for the April election is headed by John W. Shannahan, of the First ward. Mr. Shannahan is a successful business man, a worthy citizen and a man who has the best interests of the city at heart. He has been a member of the city council for three years and during that time he has never been found wanting when there was an opportunity at hand to advocate and do what was best in the interests of the taxpayer and the city at large. He is worthy of the support of every citizen who advocates good government and the citizens may rest assured that he will, as their chief executive officer, give the city a good clean business administration. The writer of this account of the primary election was one of the contestants for the mayoralty nomination and it is his earnest wish that his friends and supporters exercise their best efforts to aid him in securing the election of Mr. Shannahan together with the entire Democratic ticket.

The nominees for the offices of city solicitor and justice of the peace, Fred C. Becker and J. D. Armstrong, are both competent, popular young attorneys. They are splendid citizens, representative young men and worthy of the votes of the citizens who will elect them on the seventh of April.

James Cremean, who was renominated without opposition for the office of constable, has served his first term in that position in a very creditable manner and with his record as an excellent officer he will be re-elected by even a larger majority than he received two years ago.

James Pillars who was nominated without opposition for city civil engineer, W. H. Stephens and Frank N. Seiber, who were nominated for water works trustees, and Hugh Gagin, who was nominated for street commissioner, complete the city ticket and to say that they are all good and well qualified men for the offices for which they have been nominated voices the sentiment of every citizen who knows them. Mr. Pillars is a thoroughly competent engineer with many years of practical experience in public improvements. Mr. Stephens is a candidate for second term in the office of water works trustee and his past record in that office secure for him the solid support of the Democracy and of many, if not hundreds of Republican citizens, who appreciate and endorse his conservative business methods in the conduct of the affairs of the water works board. His running mate, Mr. Seiber, is a successful business man and a heavy taxpayer, whose qualifications are recognized by every citizen. Mr. Gagin, the nominee for street commissioner is one of the old and reliable citizens who has helped to build Lima up to the high standard it has attained in the list of the best of Ohio's municipalities, and his many years of experience in street work and public improvements, have served to thoroughly qualify him for the position. He will be elected and will prove to be an excellent commissioner.

The ward tickets are all equally as strong as the city ticket. Good men have been selected for councilmen, assessors and members of the school board and they will serve the city in a creditable manner.

The vote as cast by wards for the various candidates on the city ticket was as follows:

Was Not in Company With Ripley at Time of Arrest.

In justice to Miss Mabel Dunlap, who came to this city in company with J. H. Ripley, the traveling man who was arrested at the Lima House Saturday on a charge of having deserted his wife, it should be understood that, as a matter of fact, she was not in Ripley's company when he was arrested and knew nothing of his domestic trouble. She came to Lima on an errand Saturday morning, and having known Ripley from childhood, accepted an invitation to take dinner with him after meeting him on the train.
